March 30, 2016 - Predator Drilling Inc. supports Oil Respect

Standing up for the Canadian Oil & Gas Industry

Predator Drilling Inc. proudly supports the Oil Respect campaign launched by the Canadian Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors (CAODC) on February 17, 2016.

It is very important to Predator Drilling Inc. that there is a fact-based discussion about oil and gas development in Canada. In recent months, Predator Drilling has faced many business challenges and employees have come together as a team to collectively make the necessary changes and personal sacrifices to remain viable. Predator Drilling is asking employees to support Oil Respect by signing the petitions listed on the campaigns web site (<http://www.oilrespect.ca/>). The petitions are asking for recognition of the importance of the oil and gas industry and to take the steps required to get pipelines built so that there is a level competitive playing field against foreign oil.

Oil Respect is about standing up for hardworking oil families and businesses who are struggling. It's about respecting the facts, the workers and the contributions this industry provides to Canadians.

Oil Respect will fight against the misinformation spread by foreign celebrities, radical environmentalists and grandstanding politicians at a time when tens of thousands of people are without work and an uncertain future. It will demand action by federal and provincial governments on pipelines, the safest and most effective way to transport oil and gas products.

Oil Respect is a national campaign to allow regular Canadians to share their personal stories and demand respect for this economically vital industry.
